Kaiser Technology's co-founder, Lori Kaiser says: "We are a small firm, and we enjoy the benefits our size provides us. Our size gives us the ability to give every client special treatment. Our business model allows for low overhead and a lower fee structure. We have no need to charge high fees to support a large office or make up for staff downtime." Kaiser Technology's CEO and other co-founder, Tom Skoog continues: "Cyber Security, IT regulations and business resiliency in the face of unexpected outages are front of mind of most boards of directors. We realize each company is unique and their needs will be met more successfully with an individualized approach. We listen to our clients' challenges and then tailor our approach to meet their specific needs. We are very selective and only hire the most qualified and service-minded candidates. Our clients will tell you that it is our experience and service that set us apart from other firms."

Kaiser Technology's staff of professionals has a minimum of 10 years of industry experience. They employ professionals who are leaders in their industry. Many are CISA's, CISSPs, CPAs CBCPs' PMPs and other industry and professional certifications with Big 4 Accounting Firm experience. Their employees are professionals who have chosen project work as a career path. Kaiser Technology experiences very low staff turnover allowing for
