

Christine Comyns, CPA

Communications Manager

ABOUT CHRISTINE

A multiskilled business professional, Christine excels at combining her financial and information technology expertise with her media and graphic design experience to deliver meaningful experiences to internal and external stakeholders. A resourceful CPA with over 30 years of experience, she currently serves as our firm's communications manager.

Christine's background includes positions as an auditor with Big Four firm KPMG, a corporate tax accountant for a multistate mortgage banker, an entrepreneur operating her peer-reviewed CPA firm, and a chief financial officer of a software development company. Drawing on her experience serving publicly traded and privately held companies, educational institutions, and nonprofit organizations, she is highly capable of planning, executing, and leveraging core business activities to support daily operations and achieve strategic goals.

Comfortable performing a multitude of accounting and research engagements, Christine is proficient in business start-ups and dissolutions, financial statement preparation and reporting, general ledger maintenance, payroll and employee benefits, tax planning and preparation, budgeting, forecasting, contract administration, and regulatory compliance.

Christine has a keen interest in technology and has participated in several software development projects, including a test preparation app simulating the computerized CPA exam. She is adept at QuickBooks implementations and is actively experimenting with the emerging technologies of blockchain and robotic process automation (RPA).

Mindful of the importance of relationship building, Christine blends her business acumen, accounting industry knowledge, and marketplace awareness to curate digital and print media for Kaiser Consulting. Her responsibilities include our employee newsletter, website, marketing materials, press releases, awards and recognitions, social media, videos, and event photography.

Christine artfully showcases our firm's capabilities, highlights our employees' talents, and promotes our culture of excellence, with an adherence to our brand standards and unwavering attention to detail.
