

Jennifer Lindley, CPA

Consultant

ABOUT JENNIFER

Jennifer is a highly qualified accounting professional with over ten years of experience and a background in both public and private accounting. Jennifer began her career at Deloitte, where she performed audits of clients across multiple industries. She then served as an accounting manager in the private sector for a large company in the hospitality industry. Jennifer's auditing and accounting expertise make her a key contributor to a variety of projects at Kaiser Consulting.

Jennifer's comprehensive audit background includes an in-depth understanding of Sarbanes-Oxley, and she has supported both compliance and audit readiness projects. She is knowledgeable in internal control frameworks and is skilled in testing key controls, identifying control deficiencies, and working with business process owners to develop control remediation strategies. With her background and experience in accounting, Jennifer's proficiencies include performing financial analyses and being responsible for tasks related to the month-end close process, general ledger, and financial reporting.

Clients appreciate Jennifer's ability to lead and execute project plans, and with her excellent interpersonal skills, she quickly builds strong relationships and effectively collaborates with others to achieve project goals.
